Part III DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This action is responsive to the following communications: amendment filed on 3/17/2005.

2. This application has been reconsidered. Claims 1-14 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bates et al (Bates) (U.S. 6,088,707).

With respect to claims 1, 4, 6, 7, and 9, Bates discloses a process of navigating on a computer network (18) with a data processing device (20) comprising a screen (22) and a printer (24), wherein the server page (502 or 510) comprises information (512) and selection zones

Art Unit: 2626

(512) for selecting other pages (figure 24) and wherein the processing device further comprises means (26 or 519) for designating a selection zone (512) of the server page (502 or 510), the process comprising locating the selection zones transmitting the selection zones to the screen (22) and displaying the selection zones as a block of data in a display smaller than the size of a server page (520, figure 24 and column 19, line 46 to column 20, line 12), without displaying other information (figure 24) that was displayed with the selection zones on a the server page (figure 24, and calling up another page (514) by designating one of the displayed zones (figure 24).

With regard to claim 2, Bates discloses the data input fields are also displayed with the zones (figure 24), in which data can be entered by selecting the field using a cursor means (519) and entering data using the input means (the address could be entered (figure 24).

With respect to claim 5, Bates discloses the selection zones (512) and a window scanning the page are displayed alternately (figure 24).

With regard to claim 8, Bates discloses being able to recall a previous page upon request (column 18, line 53 to column 19, line 8).

With respect to claim 10, Bates discloses converting a page to HTML format (column 18, line 63 to column 19, line 3).

With regard to claims 11, 12, 13, and 14, Bates discloses the selection zones are displays in a reduced size screen smaller than the size of the server page (figure 24).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bates in view of Isaac et al (Isaac) (U.S. 6,647,531).

With respect to claim 3, Bates differs from claim 3 in that he does not clearly disclose that the selection zones are made to scroll when the total size exceeds that of the screen.

Isaac discloses a method for customizing network documents wherein the user is allowed to scroll down a page when the information exceeds that of the page (figure 2). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Bates wherein the selection zones are made to scroll when the total size exceeds that of the screen. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Bates by the teaching of Isaac in order to allow the user to navigate a greater amount of information.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
